In this expertly crafted, richly detailed guide, Raymond Leslie Williams explores the cultural, political, and historical events that have shaped the Latin American and Caribbean novel since the end of World War II. In addition to works originally composed in English, Williams covers novels written in Spanish, Portuguese, French, Dutch, and Haitian Creole, and traces the profound influence of modernization, revolution, and democratization on the writing of this era. Beginning in 1945, Williams introduces major trends by region, including the Caribbean and U.S. Latino novel, the Mexican and Central American novel, the Andean novel, the Southern Cone novel, and the novel of Brazil. He discusses the rise of the modernist novel in the 1940s, led by Jorge Luis Borges's reaffirmation of the right of invention, and covers the advent of the postmodern generation of the 1990s in Brazil, the Generation of the "Crack" in Mexico, and the McOndo generation in other parts of Latin America. An alphabetical guide offers biographies of authors, coverage of major topics, and brief introductions to individual novels. It also addresses such areas as women's writing, Afro-Latin American writing, and magic realism. The guide's final section includes an annotated bibliography of introductory studies on the Latin American and Caribbean novel, national literary traditions, and the work of individual authors. From early attempts to synthesize postcolonial concerns with modernist aesthetics to the current focus on urban violence and globalization, The Columbia Guide to the Latin American Novel Since 1945 presents a comprehensive, accessible portrait of a thoroughly diverse and complex branch of world literature.

Confusion de Confusiones [1688]

Penguin

This volume considers the influential revival of ancient philosophical skepticism in the 16th and early 17th centuries and investigates, from a comparative perspective, its reception in early modern English, Spanish and French drama, dedicating detailed readings to plays by Shakespeare, Calderón, Lope de Vega, Rotrou, Desfontaines, and Cervantes. While all the plays employ similar dramatic devices for "putting skepticism on stage", the study explores how these dramas, however, give different "answers" to the challenges posed by skepticism in relation to their respective historico-cultural and "ideological" contexts.

En las obras de Laura Restrepo es relevante la construcción de sujeto que hacen mujeres, hombres y homosexuales inmersos en unas dinámicas de poder ya sean individuales, colectivas, centrales o subsidiarias; porque es desde cada individuo que se gestan los hechos históricos. Partiendo de esta propuesta, se considera la reflexión sobre el sujeto indispensable para abordar las obras de la autora, ya que es en la formación de este ser particular donde se gesta la conexión entre Ficción e Historia, y por lo tanto desde donde se configura la metáfora con la "realidad" del mundo de referencia. I. V. O.

Grappling with his son's death, the painter David explores his grief through art and writing, etching out the rippled landscape of his loss. Over twenty years after his son's death, nearly blind and unable to paint, David turns to writing to examine the deep shades of his loss. Despite his acute pain, or perhaps because of it, David observes beauty in the ordinary: in the resemblance of a woman to Egyptian portraits, in the horseshoe crabs that wash up on Coney Island, in the foam gathering behind a ferry propeller; in these moments, González reveals the world through a painter's eyes. From one of Colombia's greatest contemporary novelists, Difficult Light is a formally daring meditation on grief, written in candid, arresting prose.

Conceived of as a set of fragmentary manuscripts from an unpublished Joseph Roth novel, Jacob the Mutant is a novella in a perpetual state of transformation — a story about a man named Jacob, an ersatz rabbi and owner of a roadside tavern. But when reality shifts, so does Jacob, mutating into another person entirely.

The Translation judges for the National Book Awards—Richard Miller, Alastair Reid, Eliot Weinberger—cited Clayton Eshleman and José Rubia Barcia's translation of César Vallejo's The Complete Posthumous Poetry as follows: "This, the first National Book Award to be given to a translation of modern poetry, is a recognition of Clayton Eshleman's seventeen-year apprenticeship to perhaps the most difficult poetry in the Spanish language. Eshleman and his present collaborator, José Rubia Barcia, have not only rendered these complex poems into brilliant and living English, but have also established a definitive Spanish text based on Vallejo's densely rewritten manuscripts. In recreating this modern master in English, they have also made a considerable addition to poetry in our language."

Sous le titre "La fête en Amérique latine", la revue Amérique regroupe les communications du 7ème Colloque international du CRICCAL (26, 27, 28 mai 2000). La première livraison (Amérique n° 27) a présenté la fête comme lien d'une société : les mécanismes de l'unité sociale dans la fête, construction d'une identité dont les institutions des sociétés modernes se sont saisies. La présente livraison est consacrée au caractère de rupture de la fête. Le carnaval y occupe la première place : il est contestation de l'ordre social et politique. Moquerie ou parodie détournent des formes culturelles, la subversion des discours vient compenser l'angoissante prégnance des valeurs du passé, elle invite à l'avènement d'une nouvelle vie. Elle promet plénitude et utopie recommencement. Le carnaval est un des points culminants de la vie sociale, l'inversion du solennel est étudiée dans son histoire, à travers plusieurs exemples, du Rio de la Plata. Ce phénomène a donné lieu aussi a des représentations littéraires nombreuses. La transgression orgiaque, la violence dans la fête, est devenue un des thèmes prédominants de la littérature de la fin du XXe siècle : elle était déjà présente dans les récits d'expérience vécue au tout début du siècle. A l'instar du carnaval de nombreuses formes culturelles contribuent à contester l'ordre établi. Un discours subversif est produit par des penseurs d'avant-garde et des artistes, tout particulièrement lors des grandes commémorations. Les exemples concernent Cuba, le Costa Rica, le Venezuela, l'Argentine, l'Uruguay, le Pérou, le Chili.

This book is the first that describes the practices of any stock exchange; it makes evident a high development of practices, with puts, calls, pools, and manipulations; and it appeared as early as the seventeenth century. Not inappropriately the stock exchange described is that of Amsterdam, a city which at the date of the volume's publication —1688 — was still the leading financial center of the world. The book, to be sure, is hardly a systematic account of the institution; the author pursued moral, philosophical, and rhetorical objectives, and, while saying a lot that seems now to be of little value, manages somehow to leave unsaid a great deal that would be of interest for us.

Nevertheless, it represents, even in its peculiar form, a really important source of information about the stock exchange, and indeed about the Dutch business world of that period.

El Cielo Está Roto Duke University Press
 Resumen: El ritmo, entendido como un

principio dinámico que rige el mundo circundante, posee un sinnúmero de definiciones e ilustraciones propias de los múltiples espacios por entre los cuales podemos rastrear la noción en cuestión. Es posible encontrar una definición común para tales enfoques, la cual se pone en evidencia cuando consideramos el mismo desde su perspectiva etimológica y su condición fluctuante (no métrica), y que plantea éste como la forma y el movimiento que se abstrae de la disposición particular de unos elementos sobre un plano espaciotemporal. La música, la pintura, la danza, el cine, entre otras muchas disciplinas y ámbitos está inmersos, de manera general, dentro de esta definición. En el terreno del lenguaje, el ritmo puede ser previsto tanto como el hilo conductor que guía la construcción de sentido al interior del discurso, como el efecto sensitivo que logran generar ciertas disposiciones particulares de elementos gramaticales. La primera forma de aparición está gobernada por las leyes del contenido y configuración de ideas, la segunda tiende a ser el resultado directo de la utilización de ornamentos estéticos y/o retóricos en la construcción del discurso. Desde una posición histórica, ambos tipos de ritmo han sido encasillados dentro de las respectivas formas del lenguaje a las que se ciñe el discurso en lo regular, y que conocemos por el nombre de prosa y verso. En efecto, el ritmo semántico es propio de las obras en prosa, mientras que el ritmo estético o de sensación supone una particularidad de la obra en verso. La combinación de ambos tipos de ritmos dentro de una misma obra, tiende a dar paso a una serie de fenómenos aleatorios a los propios géneros a los cuales se inscribe la obra en un principio. En este conjunto de fenómenos rítmicos se encuentra lo que en palabras de Julio Calviño conocemos por ritmo prosístico. Éste, nace en el momento mismo en que una novela o el formato de una novela, acoge una serie de ornamento.

The Colombian Gothic in Cinema and Literature traces the aesthetic and political development of the Gothic genre in Colombia. Gabriel Eljaiek-Rodríguez shows how, in the hands of Colombian writers and filmmakers, Gothic tropes are taken to their extremes to reflect particularly Colombian issues, like the ongoing armed conflict in the country since the 1950s as various left wing guerillas, government factions and paramilitary groups escalated violence. In this context, collectives such as the "Cali group" challenge both the centrality of US and European Gothics as well as the centrality of Bogota-centered perspectives of Colombian politics and conflict. The book demonstrates how writers and filmmakers transform the European and American Gothic to show genealogical links between colonization, imperialism and domestic elites' maintenance of social inequalities.
