D'HOMME

France's fate hangs in the balance! In this second part of Dumas' classic, our heroes must race across Europe to save the day. It all begins with Queen Anne of France, who is having an affair with the English Duke of Buckingham. Hoping to expose the tryst, and thereby enrage King Louix XIII into declaring war, Cardinal Richelieu plans a ball. He suggests the Queen wear a necklace that the King gifted her. But the necklace is with Buckingham. The Musketeers' mission is to bring back the jewellery, doing battle with agents of the Cardinal along the way. It's a breathless adventure, set across 17th Century Paris, Calais, and London. And this volume also introduces D'Artagnan's infatuation with the mysterious Milady. Alexandre Dumas (1802 - 1870) was a hugely popular 19th century French writer. Born of mixed French and Haitian heritage, Dumas first rose to prominence in Paris as a playwright, but later gained international fame with his historical fiction. Often co-authored with other writers, these stories wove together swashbuckling adventure, romance, and real events from France's past. Among the best known are "The Three Musketeers", and its sequels "Twenty Years After", and "Le Vicomte de Bragelonne: Ten Years Later". Set across four decades, this trilogy follows the rise of the dashing D'Artagnan—from hot-headed soldier to trusted captain under Louis XIV. Dumas' other novels include "The Count of Monte Cristo" and "The Black Tulip". His works have been adapted into more than 200 movies, including The Man in the Iron Mask starring Leonardo DiCaprio.

Neotropical

Ethnoprimatology The Floating Press Cinema has been long associated with France, dating back to 1895, when Louis and Auguste Lumi_re screened their works, the first public viewing of films anywhere.

Early silent pioneers Georges Méliès, Alice Guy Blaché and others followed in the footsteps of the Lumi_re brothers and the tradition of important filmmaking continued throughout the 20th century and beyond. In Encyclopedia of French Film Directors, Philippe Rège identifies every French director who has made at least one feature film since 1895. From undisputed masters to obscure one-timers, nearly 3,000 directors are cited here, including at least 200 filmmakers not mentioned in similar books published in France. Each director's entry contains a brief biographical summary, including dates and places of birth and death; information on the individual's education and professional training; and other pertinent details, such as real names (when the filmmaker uses a pseudonym). The entries also provide complete filmographies, including credits for feature films, shorts, documentaries, and television work. Some of the most important names in the history of film can be found in this encyclopedia, from masters of the Golden Age_Jean Renoir and RenZ Clair_to French New Wave artists such as Fran_ois Truffaut and Jean-Luc Godard.

 Depuis Freud, le sacré a parfois été interprété comme un secours que l'humanité aurait cherché sous des formes diverses. Les chants des croyants furent relégués au rang de cris angoissés et les promesses des religions confondues en de vaines tentatives de réconfort.

Nombreux sont ceux qui pensèrent alors que les lieux de culte allaient être désertés, les hommes trouvant ailleurs l'espérance de leur salut : sur le divan. Mais ce nouvel espace n'éclipsa finalement pas le premier.

Écrivains, universitaires et psychanalystes s'interrogent. Quelle place tient le sacré à l'intérieur de l'inconscient ? Doit-il y être considéré comme un symptôme ou s'agit-il au contraire d'être à l'écoute de ce qu'il y dit ? Et lorsque le sacré, d'ordinaire insaisissable, vient à se lire, par exemple dans les rêves, qu'a-t-il à nous révéler ?

'For certain men the stronger their desire, the less likely they are to act.' With his first glimpse of Madame Arnoux, Frédéric Moreau is convinced he has found his romantic destiny, but when he pursues her to Paris the young student is unable to translate his passion into decisive action. He also finds himself distracted by the equally romantic appeal of political action in the turbulent years leading up to the revolution of 1848, and by the attractions of three other women, each of whom seeks to make him her own: a haughty society lady, a capricious courtesan, and an artless country girl. Flaubert offers a vivid and unsparing portrait of the young men of his generation, struggling to salvage something of their ideals in a city where corruption, consumerism, and a pervasive sense of disenchantment undermine all but the most compromised erotic, aesthetic, and social initiatives. Sentimental Education combines thoroughgoing irony with an impartial but unexpectedly intense sympathy in a novel whose realism competes with that of Balzac and whose innovations in narrative plot and perspective mark a turning-point in the development of literary modernism. ABOUT THE SERIES: For over 100 years Oxford World's Classics has made available the widest range of literature from around the globe. Each affordable volume reflects Oxford's commitment to scholarship, providing the most accurate text plus a wealth of other valuable features, including expert introductions by leading authorities, helpful notes to clarify the text, up-to-date bibliographies for further study, and much more.

Dans l'Andalousie arabe de l'an 950, un grand seigneur, Yahya ibn al-Kutiya, trouve la mort au pied d'un figuier dans son merveilleux jardin. Amaury, jeune médecin chrétien, appelé en urgence, n'a pas de doute sur la cause de la mort : l'empoisonnement au népenthès. Commence alors une difficile enquête, confiée à Amaury et diligentée par son mentor, Hasdai ibn-Shaprut, savant juif, médecin et conseiller personnel du calife Abd al-Rahman III. Qui a tué ? L'épouse délaissée ou la concubine avide ? Les ennemis politiques de Yahya qui s'opposent farouchement au soutien actif qu'il apportait à la politique d'ouverture sociale et religieuse du calife ? Querelle de harem ou complot de cour ? Ou les deux ? Le chroniqueur ouvre la porte d'un voyage de rêve dans l'espace et dans le temps, plein de nostalgie, qui plonge le lecteur au cœur d'une civilisation à jamais perdue, faite de profonds savoirs, de richesses fabuleuses, d'extrêmes raffinements, de cruauté et de sang. Viendrez-vous nous y rejoindre ?

Dans les 'Histoires hafside,' Sébastien Garnier étudie l'histoire de la Tunisie de la Restauration (1370-1488) Sa traduction des Adilla (scr. 1457) d'Ibn al-Samma' donne accès à la quintessence du projet sultanien. L'ouvrage examine la longévité des Banu Hafs à travers les mécanismes de dévolution du pouvoir et les évolutions politiques du régime. Il analyse également les dispositifs paratextuels mobilisés par les auteurs, ainsi que le discours développé pour légitimer la cour tunisoise autour du tryptique suivant : l'héritage almohade, les actes souverains et l'anathématisation des 'arab ennemis.

In Portrait of the Writer as a Domesticated Animal, the narrator accepts a job writing a laudatory authorized biography of a fast-food magnate, whose egotism borders on megalomania. She thus enters a world of call girls, celebrities, investment portfolios, and bitter rivalries, where the desire to dominate others motivates every decision. Quickly seduced, she takes to all the silver platters and evenings spent chatting with Robert De Niro--until her cold-hearted, brutish boss receives an unexpected visit from his mother, who upends his faith in the corporate world, threatening to destroy both his opulent lifestyle and his sanity. A trenchant satire of greed and self-interest--in idealists and tycoons both--Lydie Salvayre's latest novel proves her once again to be France's funniest and most insightful critic of modern life. France's highest literary award. Grand dictionnaire universel du XIXe siècle, français, historique, géographique, mythologique, bibliographique, littéraire, artistique, scientifique.... Lindhardt og Ringhof The Hunchback of Notre-Dame is a French Gothic novel by Victor Hugo published in January 14, 1831. The title refers to the Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris, on which the story is centered. Set in medieval Paris, it tells the story of the beautiful gypsy Esmeralda, condemned as a witch by the tormented archdeacon Claude Frollo, who lusts after her. Quasimodo, the deformed bell ringer of Notre-Dame Cathedral, having fallen in love with the kindhearted Esmeralda, tries to save her by hiding her in the cathedral's tower.

Les films cultes ne sont pas forcément ceux qui font le plus d'entrées mais ceux qui, à une période donnée, ont profondément marqué l'histoire du cinéma par leur utilisation de procédés novateurs (narratifs ou techniques). En prenant appui sur le cinéma européen, l'auteur décortique l'histoire de dix films élevés au rang de films cultes.

Voici une étonnante bibliothèque. Clémentine Mélois y pastiche par l'image les classiques de la littérature. Lirons-nous aujourd'hui Maudit Bic, d'Herman Melville, ou Père et Gay, de Léon Tolstoï ? Au fait, quel philosophe a-t-il écrit le Crépuscule des idoles des jeunes ? Pour décrypter les anagrammes, contrepèteries, homophonies, permutations et autres astuces de ces cent titres, on passera de la culture classique à la culture populaire, puisant dans des souvenirs de lectures, de chansons, de publicités ou de films. Editions Publibook "Pour rien au monde, Driss Bennouna ne céderait son jardin où il impose à tous ses proches de savourer à l'aube le premier repas. Il a su résister aux convoitises des lotisseurs. Parviendra-t-il à chasser les trafiquants de kif qui font de son domaine leur sanctuaire? Pourra-t-il déjouer les ruses de Messeouda, la femme du jardinier, dont l'ambition est sans limites et sans scrupules? Quant au propriétaire du jardin mitoyen, le mystérieux " Suisse ", sera-t-il un ennemi ou un allié? Le Jardin andalou apparaît comme un vaste théâtre où une multitude de personnages truculents, ridicules ou attachants, jouent leur rôle tour à tour dans un grand jeu de dupe sur fond de superstitions populaires."--Book cover.

 Shoes, gloves, umbrellas, cigars that are not just objects—the topic of fetishism seems both bizarre and inevitable. In this venturesome and provocative book, Emily Apter offers a fresh account of the complex relationship between representation and sexual obsession in turn-of-the-century French culture. Analyzing works by authors in the naturalist and realist traditions as well as making use of documents from a contemporary medical archive, she considers fetishism as a cultural artifact and as a subgenre of realist fiction. Apter traces the web of connections among fin-de-siècle representations of perversion, the fiction of pathology, and the literary case history. She explores in particular the theme of "female fetishism" in the context of the feminine culture of mourning, collecting, and dressing.

 Lucie Henebelle, single mother and beleaguered detective, has just about enough on her plate when she receives a panicked phone call from an ex-lover who has developed a rare disorder after watching an obscure film from the 1950s. With help from the brooding Inspector Franck Sharko, who is exploring the movie's connection to five unearthed corpses at a construction site, Lucie begins to strip away the layers of what may be the most disturbing film ever made. With more lives on the line, Sharko and Lucie struggle to solve this terrifying mystery before it's too late. In a high-stakes, adrenaline-fueled hunt that jumps from France to Canada, Egypt to Rwanda, and beyond, this astonishing page-turner, with cinematic echoes from The Manchurian Candidate and the Bourne series, will keep you guessing until the very end.

This 1999 reference grammar, written for advanced students of French, their teachers, and others who want a better understanding of the French language, combines the best of modern and traditional approaches. Its objective is not only practical mastery of the language, but familiarity with its structure. Taking into account modern linguistic research, Advanced French Grammar approaches the French language primarily through the study of syntactic structures, but without excessive emphasis on formalism. It provides a generous number of examples, based on the author's own experience of teaching French to English-speakers, to help the student to understand the different meanings of apparently similar syntactic alternatives. The norms of 'correct expression' are given together with current usage and deviations, and appendixes provide information on the 1990 spelling reforms and on numbers. A substantial index of French and English words and of topics provides easy access to the text itself.

Ethnoprimateology is situated at the intersection between the biological and cultural subfields of anthropology.

Research on the interface between human and nonhuman primates has been steadily increasing since 1997, when the term ethnoprimateology was first coined.

Although there have been studies on human-nonhuman primate interactions in the tropical Americas, no single comprehensive volume has been published that integrates this information to fully understand it in this region. Eighteen novel chapters written by outstanding scholars with various backgrounds are included in this edited volume. They refer to the complex interconnections between different indigenous peoples with New World monkeys that sympatrically share their ancestral territories. Geographically, the range covers all of the Neotropics, from southern Mexico through northern Argentina. This work includes topics such as primates as prey and food, ethnozoology/ethnoecology, cosmology, narratives about monkeys, uses of primates, monkeys as pets, and ethnoclassification. Multiple views as well as diverse theoretical and methodological approaches are found within the pages. In sum, this is a compendium of ethnoprimateological research that will be prized by anthropologists, ethnobiologists, primatologists, conservationists, and zoologists alike. "This book... provides a historical benchmark for all subsequent research in ethnoprimateology in the Neotropics and beyond." — Leslie E. Sponsel, University of Hawai'i at Mānoa.
