La gestion mentale a montré qu'elle constituait une approche efficace pour aider à rechercher l'origine des incompréhensions que tout enseignant, un jour ou l'autre, a vécu dans sa classe. Ce guide propose aux enseignants de découvrir leur propre profil pédagogique et d'aider leurs élèves à faire de même, en donnant les moyens d'analyser et de connaître leurs stratégies mentales. « Copyright Electre »

OBJECTIFS ET DÉMARCHE

MÉTHODOLOGIQUES :

Tous les enseignants, y compris ceux de

(Français) Langue

Étrangère, connaissent le célèbre triangle didactique qui illustre

toute situation

d'enseignement et met en évidence les multiples

interactions entre

l'enseignant, l'élève et le savoir. L'exploitation de ce triangle a donné lieu à plus d'études théoriques que pratiques. Le présent ouvrage a donc comme premier objectif de

combler ce vide à l'heure où l'enseignement des

langues vivantes est

tributaire des

recommandations du

CECR (Cadre Européen

Commun de Référence

pour les langues) et des changements qui en découlent. L'ouvrage se présente donc comme un authentique traité de

pédagogie contemporaine

qui allie étroitement théorie et pratiques de classe et répond

concrètement aux

multiples interrogations des enseignants souvent désemparés face au poids des programmes officiels, aux horaires limités, aux

manuels parfois

inadaptés, à la

perspective actionnelle préconisée par le CECR et la remise à niveau qu'elle suggère.

This book explores and critiques topical debates in educational sciences, philosophy, social work and cognitive neuroscience. It examines constructions of children, parents and the welfare state in relation to neurosciences and its vocabulary of brain

architecture, critical periods and toxic stress.

The authors provide insight into the historical roots of the relationship between early childhood education policy and practice and sciences. The book argues that the neurophilia in the early childhood education field is not a coincidence, but relates to larger societal changes that value

economic arguments over ethical, social and eminently pedagogical concerns. It affects the image of the child, the parent and the very meaning of education in general. Constructions of Neuroscience in Early Childhood Education discusses what neuroscience has to offer, what its limitations are, and how to gain a more nuanced view on its benefits and challenges. The debates in this book will support early childhood researchers, students and practitioners in the field to make their own judgements about new evolutions in the scientific discourse.

La classe de langue, ce n'est pas forcément le rassemblement, sous la conduite d'un professeur, d'un groupe d'élèves de même niveau et de profil d'apprentissage identique. L'hétérogénéité est le plus souvent la règle : différence de niveaux, intérêts par rapport à la langue apprise contrastés, attitudes et conduites d'apprentissage fortement différenciées selon les univers culturels d'origine. Ce qu'on appelle la classe multi-niveaux correspond à ce second modèle et appelle de la part de l'enseignant(e) la mise en place de solutions pédagogiques appropriées qui préserve l'unité du groupe- classe tout en construisant pour chacun un parcours d'apprentissage spécifique. Nos deux auteurs, Catherine David et Dominique Abry, ont abordé le problème de front et mis en place les bases d'une pédagogie différenciée qui s'inscrit dans la logique des apprentissages d'une langue étrangère, selon les profils de compétence de chacun. Elles veulent de la sorte combler un certain vide en la matière et rassurer les enseignants en leur proposant des solutions qui peuvent trouver place dans des cadres méthodologiques variés. One of the principal tasks for legal research at the beginning of the 21st century is to reconstruct the understanding of the relationship between the legal system and the market order. After almost three decades of deregulation driven by a belief in the self-equilibrating properties of the market, the financial crisis of 2008 has reminded everyone of the fundamental truth that markets have legal and institutional foundations, without which they cannot effectively function. The chapters in the present volume are the result of work by a group of legal scholars which began in the mid-2000s, at a time when the shortcomings of deregulatory policies were becoming clear in a number of contexts. The chapters address the question of how the language of contract law describes or conceptualises the market order and the relationship of the law to it. The perspectives taken are, in turn, historical, comparative, and context-specific. The focus of the book is on a foundational idea, the concept of capacitas, which signifies a status conferred upon citizens for the purpose of enabling them to participate in the economic life of the polity. In modern legal systems, 'capacity' is the principal juridical mechanism by which individuals and entities are empowered to enter into legally binding agreements and, more generally, to arrange their affairs using the instruments of private law. Legal capacity is thereby the gateway to involvement in the operations of a market economy.

Research Hachette Français Langue Etrangère
Originally published in 1992. This book brings together the work of a number of distinguished international researchers engaged in basic research on beginning reading. Individual chapters address various processes and problems in learning to read - including how acquisition gets underway, the contribution of story listening experiences, what is involved in learning to read words, and how readers represent information about written words in memory. In addition, the chapter contributors consider how phonological, onset-rime, and syntactic awareness contribute to reading acquisition, how learning to spell is involved, how reading ability can be explained as a combination of decoding skill plus listening comprehension skill, and what causes reading difficulties and how to study these causes.

Techniques and Principles in Language Teaching

Hachette Français Langue Etrangère
Language Diversity in the Sinophone World offers interdisciplinary insights into social, cultural, and linguistic aspects of multilingualism in the Sinophone world, highlighting language diversity and opening up the burgeoning field of Sinophone studies to new perspectives from sociolinguistics. The book begins by charting historical trajectories in Sinophone multilingualism, beginning with late imperial China through to the emergence of English in the mid-19th century. The volume uses this foundation as a jumping off point from which to provide an in-depth comparison of modern language planning and policies throughout the Sinophone world, with the final section examining multilingual practices not readily captured by planning frameworks and the ideologies, identities, repertoires, and competences intertwined within these different multilingual configurations. Taken together, the collection makes a unique sociolinguistic-focused intervention into emerging research in Sinophone studies and will be of interest to students and scholars within the discipline.

Interculturalism at the crossroads African Books Collective

The linguistic integration of migrants affects every aspect of settling in a new country (employment, health, etc.). The aim of this collection of texts is to propose a number of specific measures member states can take to help adult migrants become acquainted with the language of the host country. The main focus is on organising language courses that meet migrants' real communication needs. It is not enough for authorities simply to consider the technical aspects of such courses, they should also design and conduct them in accordance with the fundamental values of the Council of Europe. A number of issues concerning the linguistic integration of adult migrants are presented here, beginning with the notion of linguistic integration itself. Family reunion, the nature of citizenship and the function of language tests, among others, are dealt with from the point of view of language and language use. Readers are invited to reflect on the type of language competences that need to be acquired as well as an appropriate use of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages. The collection also sets out approaches and instruments designed to assist in implementing effective policies.

Under the Sea

Bloomsbury Publishing

This book provides a practical overview of the most important methods in the field. Readers are drawn into classrooms where various teaching methods and approaches are being used. They are encouraged to reflect on their own beliefs and to develop their own approach to language teaching. - Publisher. Language Diversity in the Sinophone World Nelson Thornes

Part One addresses

'Theological Foundations.' The five essays in this section deal with the Bible, Theology and Ecumenism. The subjects of theological methods, contextual hermeneutics, and appropriate curriculum are given special attention. Of course even foundational issues cannot be discussed in a vacuum and so each of the essays addresses these foundational subjects in the light of African realities. Part Two deals with 'Contemporary Issues.' It is particularly in this section that the traditional themes in African theology have been somewhat displaced by concerns which are today very pressing indeed. Three essays are devoted to the question of HIV/AIDS. This disease, which has devastated the African continent, demands a theological and practical response from those who claim to follow Jesus Christ. If the churches do not respond to this crisis with energy and determination we should not be surprised if the next generation wonders whether the Gospel has the power which we claim that it has. Two essays address the question of Islam and Muslim-Christian Relations in Africa. The resurgence of Islam in the world today is a concern of many. For those who believe in Jesus, this is a challenge which demands much wisdom and love. How should we respond to our Muslim neighbours? What are appropriate and thoughtful ways to share the love of Christ? Two further essays appear under the title of 'The Marginalized.' This could, of course, be a much larger section. Those who suffer from AIDS could be included in this number, and one might have expected to see at least one essay on the place of women. In this volume, however, the 'disabled' and youth are highlighted. Both groups are clearly in need of the attention of the churches, and both groups are clearly misunderstood and neglected. The final section of Part Two contains essays, which focus attention on 'Theological Paedagogy.' All of the other contributions to this volume make suggestions and arguments about curriculum, resources, and issues of concern for theological educators. The causal aim of this book is that these essays may help us to reflect in an intentional way on the implications of contemporary realities for the future of theological education.
