DAVID LODGE'S CHANGING PLACES: A TALE OF ...January 12, 2013 Patrick T Reardon 0. David Lodge. David Lodge, I suspect, had fun writing his 1975 novel Changing Places. It's a playful novel of two English professors — Morris Zapp from the prestigious West Coast school, Euphoric State (think the University of California at Berkeley), and Philip Swallow from the second-tier British school in a blue-collar city, the University of Rummidge (think of the University of Birmingham) — who trade positions for the spring term in 1969. The sexual revolution, Vietnam, student sit-ins and smoking "pot" are all highly topical themes; the novel is pure "psychedelic '60's." The style is redolent of Lodge's dry, sardonic humour, so it is very entertaining to read. Changing Places by David Lodge - Goodreads Changing Places is a comic novel with serious undercurrents. It tells the story of the six-month academic exchange program between fictional universities located in Rummidge (modelled on Birmingham in England) and Plotinus, in the state of Euphoria (modeled on Berkeley in California). The two academics taking part in the exchange are both aged 40, but appear at first to otherwise have little in common, mainly because of the differing academic systems of their native countries. Changing Places - Wikipedialink Link In his satire about academic life, David Lodge makes a simple premise—two faculty members exchanging positions for a semester—the basis for his exploration of the basic differences... - the campus novel in full ...It is the 1st of January 1969 and two English literature professors are changing their places for six months. One goes to the State University of Euphoria, the famous centre of learning located in the most attractive country in America between Northern and Southern California. Lodge, David. Changing Places: A Tale of Two Campuses ...David Lodge  A critical paper by. George Downing  April 4, 2000. Changing Places is David Lodge's hilarious account of an academic exchange program which takes Philip Swallow, an obscure professor of English literature at an obscure red-brick university in England, to Lodge's comic version of the Berkeley campus, which he renames Euphoric State. CRITICAL ESSAY ON DAVID LODGE'S "CHANGING PLACES" The two main characters are Philip Swallow and Morris Zapp. Both are 40-year-old white male English literature professors.
