 Giant Carrot

Adventure! Drama! Terror! All in a carrot? Or at least in a little bunny's imagination. This sweet and silly story sparks the playful side in all of us. Follow along with Bunny and his imagination as he jumps from the forest to undersea exploration to deep in the jungle, all while finishing his snack. Bunny is excited to have a carrot, but not for the reason you would think. He can't stop playing with his food! Read along as Bunny transforms from a Bunnysaur munching on treetops to a Space Hero Bunny battling an evil Carrotship to a Giant Sea Monster chasing a carrot submarine. With lessons on table manners, eating healthy, and the power of creativity, Bunny! Don't Play with Your Food is the perfect read-aloud for parents and children with wild imaginations and a penchant for mischief.

All their lives Jack III and his sister Elayna have listened to the tales about their grandfather and the beanstalk. It turned out that Grandfather Jack had actually traded the cow for magic beans and a carrot seed. But when he got home the little carrot seed had blown out of Grandfather Jack's hand. Already feeling a little embarrassed about the trade, Jack didn't mention the carrot seed. The carrot seed also grew, but it had grown much slower. By the time Jack III and Elayna came along, it was quite gigantic. When all the family wealth from the trip up the beanstalk had run out, Jack III and Elayna began to sell carrot pieces in the local market. As they worked deeper and deeper into the carrot, it became a huge carrot mine. But then some strange things began to happen. It became an adventure that made Grandpa Jack's trip up the beanstalk look like a calm Sunday outing. But when so much was at stake, did they have their grandfather's courage? This book is 42 pages of excitement and intrigue with colorful pictures showing every step of the story. However, the story is a little too intense for very young children. Depending on the child, perhaps around five years old is a good minimum age for this book.

The legendary, cult classic, runaway hit of the 1980s returns like Kaiser Sosse on the midnight tide! Before Madman and Bone, before Hate and Hellboy and Eightball (and before Ritalin), all fandom's avante garde lunatic fringe had to read was the Flaming Carrot. Long out of print, this buried treasure, this manic, zany, oddball title is coming back home just when the comic marketplace needs him the most!

It's a dark day for Itching Down. Four million wasps have just descended on the town, and the pests are relentless! What can be done? Bap the Baker has a crazy idea that just might work . . . Young readers will love this lyrical, rhyming text as they watch the industrious citizens of Itching Down knead, bake, and slather the biggest wasp trap there ever was! John Vernon Lord's bright ink and crayon illustrations fill the pages with humorous detail.

The Story of a Carrot-Crunching Dinosaur Simon & Schuster Books for Young Readers

Starting with a tiny seahorse, a young diver encounters numerous sea creatures while hunting for treasure. But watch out! Not every undersea creature is friendly. As our explorer discovers when a shark discovers him! Never fear because this adventure, as it turns out, takes place in the bath! The text is fabulous to read aloud - it's filled to the gills with memorable word play, bouncing rhythms and the names of exotic sea creatures. It absolutely begs to be read over and over again!

This book is "The rest of the story," for Jack and the Beanstalk. It covers what happened to Jack's family after his famous trip up the beanstalk. It turned out that Jack traded the cow for a magic bean and a carrot seed. By the time he got home, he was beginning to feel a little foolish about the trade. Opening his hand, Jack stared down at his seeds, wondering how he was going to explain this all to his mother. But a wind came up and blew that little carrot seed out of Jack's hand. With great doubts about the wisdom of his trade, Jack didn't mention the lost carrot seed. But the carrot seed also grew. It grew much slower. It was still growing when grandchildren Jack III and Elayna came along and the carrot was now gigantic. It is true that Jack made a lot of money from the hen who laid the golden eggs and the singing harp. But Jack had never been that good with money, so the family fortune was gone. The giant carrot gave Jack III and Elayna an idea. They thought it would be a great place for a carrot mine to sell carrot pieces in the local market. Over time, as Jack and Elayna made their way to the lower parts of the giant carrot, a strange glow began to come from the depths of the carrot mine. What kind of world did they discover? All their lives Jack III and his sister Elayna had listened to the tales about their grandfather and the beanstalk. Now those adventures seemed very tame compared to what they faced in the depths of the carrot mine. But when so much was at stake, did they have their grandfather's courage? The stories in the Galactic Flyer books are for children, but they are not childish. Children are brilliant and I have seen that they love to learn about character and values in their stories. This story teaches about courage, freedom and also about being wise with money. There are many colorful pictures in this book. The pictures of characters acting out this adventure are of my children and grandchildren who grew up on these tales. This is a story that children will remember. Over the decades I have made up countless stories of adventure and fantasy for my children and grandchildren. I chose the stories in this series from those my teen grandchildren still remember. It is a joy to pass these stories along to others outside our circle of family and friends. I hope you and the children in your life enjoy them.

deeper into a rich fantasy world where art is both coveted and feared. For the rabbits of the Vale of Industry, cha is everything. It's the fuel that lights their homes, powers their factories, and makes modern life possible. But to Bridgebelle, cha means so much more.
It's the vital ingredient she needs to make thokchas—beautiful works of art that glow and transform, as if by magic.
But Bridgebelle isn't the only one captivated by thokchas. Outside the Vale, the nefarious foxes have discovered the destructive power they hold. They plan use thokchas as the ultimate weapon in their age-old war against the rabbits. When the foxes attack, Bridgebelle is left with an impossible choice: make them a thokcha, or offer up her life.

The Worst Vacation Ever! Thirteen-year-old Kyle thought spending a vacation on the Oregon coast with his family would be great. He'd never flown before, and he'd never seen the Pacific Ocean. One evening Kyle is left in charge of his younger sister, BeeBee, while his parents attend an adults-only Salesman of the Year dinner on an elegant yacht. Then the earthquake comes -- starting a fire in their hotel! As Kyle and BeeBee fight their way out through smoke and flame, Kyle remembers the sign at the beach that said after an earthquake everyone should go uphill and inland, as far from the ocean as possible. Giant tsunami waves -- three or four stories high can ride in from the sea and engulf anyone who doesn't escape fast enough. Kyle and BeeBee flee uphill as a tsunami crashes over the beach, the hotel, and the town. The giant wave charges straight up the hillside and through the woods where the children are running for their lives. The perfect vacation has become a nightmare! Somehow Kyle and BeeBee have to outwit nature's fury and save themselves from tsunami terror. Flaming Carrot Comics Presents Flaming Carrot, Man of Mystery! Knopf Books for Young Readers

When a little boy plants a carrot seed, everyone tells him it won't grow. But when you are very young, there are some things that you just know, and the little boy knows that one day a carrot will come up. So he waters his seed, and pulls the weeds, and he waits ... First published in 1945 and never out of print, this timeless combination of Ruth Krauss's simple text and Crockett Johnson's eloquent illustrations creates a triumphant and deeply satisfying story for readers of all ages.
