A Teacher's Toolkit of Instant Writing Activities Heinle Elt
 Achieve IELTS is written by experienced IELTS teachers and examiners and offers a unique approach to preparing students for the IELTS examination. It is a two-level, student-centred course that not only prepares students for the test but also for academic life after IELTS. This popular IELTS preparation course has been completely revised. The Student's and Teacher's Books have been redesigned. The Student's Books have new and updated listening and reading texts, and almost all of the photographs, charts and graphs have been replaced.
Engineering Thermodynamics Pearson Longman
 Spotlight on CAE is a comprehensive course carefully written to the new CAE exam specifications introduced in December 2008. It prepares adult and younger learners to excel in the revised exam. All four skills are developed within each of the sixteen units, and are supported by an overall skills-based examination syllabus. Spotlight on CAE includes:

California Out of the Box Cambridge English
 Spotlight on Advanced National Geographic Learning
Coursebook with Key Praeger Pub Text

This book constitutes the thoroughly refereed post-conference proceedings of the First International Conference on Technology and Innovation in Learning, Teaching and Education, TECH-EDU 2018, held in Thessaloniki, Greece, on June 20-22, 2018. The 30 revised full papers along with 18 short papers presented were carefully reviewed and selected from 80 submissions. The papers are organized in topical sections on new technologies and teaching approaches to promote the strategies of self and co-regulation learning (new-TECH to SCRL); eLearning 2.0: trends, challenges and innovative perspectives; building critical thinking in higher education: meeting the challenge; digital tools in S and T learning; exploratory potentialities of emerging technologies in education; learning technologies; digital technologies and instructional design; big data in education and learning analytics.

insight will challenge, develop and inspire your students. It will motivate and engage them with thought provoking topics and information rich texts which will challenge their opinions and inspire them to think critically about the world they live in. It will prepare them for a life of learning with a clear focus on developing their skills and autonomous learning habits. It will give your students a deeper awareness of how language works, furnishing them with not just the meaning of vocabulary but also the rules that govern its use, allowing your students to use it with confidence.

Insight: Advanced: Student's Book Macmillan Elt

This publication reports on a national American Association for Higher Education project to create ways to treat teaching as a scholarly activity that can be shared, documented, studied, reviewed, rewarded, and improved. The focus is not only on teacher practice but on its effect on student learning. Following an Introduction by Pat Hutchings, Chapter 1 presents "Course Anatomy: The Dissection and Analysis of Knowledge through Teaching" (Lee S. Shulman). Chapter 2, "Defining Features and Significant Functions of the Course Portfolio" (Pat Hutchings), includes two case studies: "Writing a Course Portfolio for an Introductory Survey Course in American History" (William W. Cutler) and "A Course Portfolio for a Graduate Nursing Course" (Donna Martsof); Chapter 3, "Why Now? Course Portfolios in Context" (Mary Taylor Huber), includes two case studies: "A Course Portfolio for a Colloquium in 20th-Century American Foreign Relations" (Mary Ann Heiss) and "A Course Portfolio in Mathematics" (Orin Chein); and Chapter 4, "How To Develop a Course Portfolio" (Pat Hutchings), is followed by three case studies: "A Course Portfolio for Midcareer Reflection" (Deborah M. Langsam); "Post-Tenure Review: A Case Study of a Course Portfolio within a Personnel File" (Charles W. Mignon); and "A Portfolio That Makes a Point" (Eli Passow). Chapter 5, "Putting the Focus on Student Learning" (Daniel Bernstein), is followed by two case studies: "A Course Portfolio for a Creative Writing Course" (Pat Hutchings) and "A Hypertext Portfolio for an Experimental American Literature Course" (Randy Bass). Chapter 6 is titled "Audiences and Occasions: Using Course Portfolios for Peer Collaboration and Review of Teaching" (Pat Hutchings with a report by Kathleen Quinlan). An annotated bibliography of additional print and electronic resources is appended. (Contains 28 references.) (SM)

A Computer Approach (SI Units Version) Heinle & Heinle Pub

A year-long study of the writing development of 27 first through third graders in an English/Spanish bilingual program was conducted during the 1980-81 school year. Samples of the children's writing were collected at four intervals, coded for computer tallying, and analyzed in terms of code-switching, spelling, punctuation and segmentation, structural features, stylistic devices, and content. Additionally, the context in which the writing developed was evaluated by classroom observations, teacher interviews, review of familial backgrounds, and a survey of the community language situation. Myths about bilingual language proficiency, biliteracy, bilingual education, teaching writing, and learning to write are all countered by evidence presented in this study. In a discussion of implications, the concept of a whole language approach to writing instruction is supported, in which authentic and functional texts are offered to and produced by children. Examples of the children's writing with appropriate translations are given along with various tables. Informal follow-up information is presented in three epilogues dealing with changes in the researcher's commitment to the study's original writing theories, the writing of some students a year after the study; and a chronological outline of the demise of the bilingual program used in the study. Appendices list interview questions used for teachers and aides and categories for coding the writing data. This book contains 134 references. (ALL)
