Concern for achieving Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) by 2015 has led to a focus on the role that non-state providers (NSPs) can offer in extending access and improving quality of basic services. While NSPs can help to fill a gap in provision to those excluded from state provision, recent growth in both for-profit and not-for-profit providers in developing countries has sometimes resulted in fragmentation of service delivery. To address this, attention is increasingly given in the education sector to developing 'partnerships' between governments and NSPs. Partnerships are further driven by the expectation that the state has the moral, social, and legal responsibility for overall education service delivery and so should play a role in facilitating and regulating NSPs. Even where the ultimate aim of both non-state providers and the state is to provide education of acceptable quality to all children, this book provides evidence from diverse contexts across Africa, South Asia, and Latin America to highlight the challenges in them partnering to achieve this. This book was published as a special issue of Development in Practice.

Sinopsis del libro: Mi nombre es Adolfo Hidalgo, vivo en la calle San Julián 25, apartamento 302 en Madrid. Estoy casado con Mariana Solís, tengo dos hijos; Pedro y María, un coche sedán del año, un perro llamado Trueno, un título de abogado de la Universidad Complutense de Madrid y una oficina en Gran Vía... Y me voy a suicidar... El hallazgo del primer cadáver en un apartamento abandonado es el inicio de una seguidilla de suicidios con similares características en Madrid. Aparentemente son ocasionados por depresiones o variaciones del estado de ánimo, pero cuando se descubre que una de las escenas del crimen fue manipulada entonces asume la investigación el agente de la Brigada de Homicidios de la Policía Nacional Eliseo Álvarez, quien junto a su vecina Marta Torrejón -secretaria contable, aficionada a las novelas policiales clásicas y con el sueño frustrado de no haberse convertido en policía en su juventud-, inician las indagaciones para dar con el responsable que está detrás de los suicidios. Un recorrido por el Madrid actual, una carrera contra el tiempo y un enigma por descubrir. Cada acierto en la investigación es una amenaza para las siguientes víctimas, un asesino en serie sin escrúpulos y un grupo de selectos personajes son los principales ingredientes de esta novela policial al más puro estilo de Camilla Läckberg, Stieg Larsson y Enrique Laso. ¿Qué saben los suicidas? ¿Podrán terminar los sacrificios humanos? ¿Lograrán Eliseo y Marta encontrar la verdad?

Investigating Identities: Questions of Identity in Contemporary International Crime Fiction is one of the relatively few books to date which adopts a comparative approach to the study of the genre. This collection of twenty essays by international scholars, examining crime fiction production from over a dozen countries, confirms that a comparative approach can both shed light on processes of adaptation and appropriation of the genre within specific national, regional or local contexts, and also uncover similarities between the works of authors from very different areas. Contributors explore discourse concerning national and historical memory, language, race, ethnicity, culture and gender, and examine how identity is affirmed and challenged in the crime genre today. They reveal a growing tendency towards hybridization and postmodern experimentation, and increasing engagement with philosophical enquiry into the epistemological dimensions of investigation. Throughout, the notion of stable identities is subject to scrutiny. While each essay in itself is a valuable addition to existing criticism on the genre, all the chapters mutually inform and complement each other in fascinating and often unexpected ways. This volume makes an important contribution to the growing field of crime fiction studies and to ongoing debates on questions of identity. It will therefore be of special interest to students and scholars of the crime genre, identity studies and comparative literature. It will also appeal to all who enjoy reading contemporary crime fiction.

This book focuses on the New Chilean Narrative published in the historically significant decade of the 90s by a group of writers belonging to the Generation of the 80s. The analysis of selected texts by Ana Maria del Rio, Diamela Eltit, Guadalupe Santa Cruz, Jaime Collyer, Ramon Diaz Eterovic, Gonzalo Contreras, and Alberto Fuguet explores the literary strategies by which these writers present literary imageries of deception that question the post-dictatorial order in Chile. The concept of imageries of deception alludes to literary motifs that represent a critical view of a Chilean contemporary reality whose source can be traced to the Pinochet dictatorship and its ideological aftermath. The imageries of deception question the dominant myths that sustain Chilean post-dictatorial society, and remember the nation's ideological conflicts of the past three decades. As cultural spaces where memory resists the dominant will to deceptively erase the past, the narrative of the 90s reveals the enduring and debilitating impact of a dictatorship successfully disguised as the current neo-liberal democracy.

 "The story of Dan Fadrique Lopez de Mendoza, a man of seafaring adventures and a deist in the mould of the eighteenth-century philosophes, and Dona Blanca Roldan de Solis, a woman of unbounded pride and a Catholic driven by religious fanaticism, neither of which traits prevented her from having had an adulterous affair as a young woman in Lima, Peru, with Don Fadrique."--Back cover.

Radical Justice investigates the convoluted relationship between memory and justice in Spain and the Southern Cone as it is portrayed in political documentaries and detective fiction from Spain and the Southern Cone. It argues that the possibility of achieving justice in these regions lies beyond market and state and is yet to come. This book appeals to a wide range of scholars, ranging from national literature and film specialists of Argentina, Chile, and Spain, to philosophers and students of ethics, human rights, and questions of justice.

The image of the hard-boiled private investigator from gritty pulp fiction, a terse and mysterious figure, has become increasingly universal as the detective novel crosses more and more borders. A booming genre in Latin America, Spain and other Hispanic cultures, detective fiction has transcended the limitations of its influences. Hispanic authors relatively new to the genre have published novels and series popular with the public, while a number of well-known writers have adapted the genre to reflect the concurrent globalization of modern society and the crimes within it. This volume presents a compilation of 11 critical essays on genero negro--contemporary detective fiction in the Hispanic and Luso-Brazilian canon. Surveying the last twenty years, the text analyzes emerging trends in this rapidly evolving genre, as well as the mutations and innovations taking place within the style. The first section of the book is dedicated to the detective fiction of Spain and Portugal. The second section surveys works from Latin America and the United States, where topics touch on universal subjects like crime, identity and feminism.

Laura set the bassinet down gently and backed away, smiling at us. Eugene nudged me, but I was shaking so hard, I couldn't pick up the baby. Eugene quickly scooped him up instead and cuddled him before placing him in my arms. Little Martín stared at me intently and then... he smiled. From the emotional moment when they first met, Eugene and Mary Beth were entranced by the three-month-old baby they'd traveled to Mexico to adopt. Then life took an unexpected turn. Bureaucratic bungling, political wrangling, Mexican holidays, and plain bad luck repeatedly delayed the adoption's final approval. Meanwhile, Eugene returned to the U.S., leaving Mary Beth in Puerto Vallarta with Martín. The Martin Chronicles-originally a series of email messages Mary Beth sent home to family and friends-recounts the trials and joys of a first-time mother with limited Spanish skills who was determined to make the best of a precarious situation. This heartwarming, lively narrative reveals a growing love not only for an adopted baby, but for his native country as well. Through comic adventures, budding friendships, and cultural celebrations, The Martin Chronicles gives an account of one family's incredible saga to bring their baby home.

Nada es nunca lo que parece. Y menos si David Gurney está involucrado. Tercera entrega de la serie de novela negra protagonizada por Dave Gurney. Han pasado seis meses. David Gurney apenas ha conseguido reincorporarse a una cierta normalidad después de haberse encontrado al borde de la muerte tras resolver el caso más peligroso al que se había enfrentado. Madeleine, su esposa, está preocupada. Gurney ha sido diagnosticado con síndrome de estrés post traumático y nada parece alegrarle. Días después, el exdetective recibe una llamada. Connie Clarke, la periodista que creó la leyenda de superpoli y lo catapultó a la fama, quiere pedirle ayuda. Su hija Kim está realizando un documental sobre las familias de las víctimas de un asesino en serie al que nunca atraparon, el Buen Pastor, y Connie quisiera que Gurney supervisara sus investigaciones y la guiara. En parte por aburrimiento y en parte por hacerle un favor a Connie, Gurney acepta. Sin embargo, esto no será más que el principio. Incapaz de ponerle coto a su curiosidad y a su necesidad de resolver cada una de las incógnitas que se le presentan, David Gurney se verá arrastrado a una investigación para descubrir la verdadera identidad del asesino. Un asesino que es tan imprevisible como peligroso, un diablo al que convendría dejar en paz.

Muchos de nosotros queremos más beneficios de Dios en lugar de más de Dios. Dios es mayor que cualquier cosa que podamos decir de Él. Su presencia es más asombrosa de lo que podamos imaginar. Siempre hay más que conocer de Él. En Más de Dios, R. T. Kendall lo hará tener hambre de conocer a Dios de manera más profunda e íntima para que pueda experimentar lo real que es. Si desea conocer más a Dios, este libro es para usted. No se ha escrito para darle nueva información o cómo usar tal conocimiento, sino para ayudarlo a saber cómo es Dios con el fin de conocerlo, reconocerlo y escucharlo hablar sin importar lo que tenga que decir. Si ese es su deseo, usted cuenta con esta promesa de Jesús: "Bienaventurados los que tienen hambre y sed de justicia, porque ellos serán saciados" (Mateo 5:6, rvr 1960). Así como el agua cura su sed y el alimento sacia su hambre, también experimentar a Dios -- tener más de Él-- le otorgará paz. More of God is about moving beyond faith. It is about getting more of God. Experiencing more of God. Every book in the Bible, especially the books of the New Testament, are written for this purpose. Take the letters; those who are addressed were already saved. But the writers wanted their hearers to experience not just more knowledge about God but more of God. Everything in this book is designed to make you hungry. Thirsty. As you read, keep in mind that the ever-increasing hunger for more of God is from God.

En 1 Corintios 12:28, la Biblia nos habla de una serie de dones que Dios ha puesto a disposición de la iglesia. Estos diferentes dones, en conjunto, ayudan a la iglesia de Dios a avanzar con fuerza. El don de gobierno es uno de los dones que Dios ha puesto en la iglesia. ¿Cómo debe conducirse el liderazgo de la iglesia? ¿Qué deben hacer los líderes de la iglesia? La Biblia dice claramente: «Obedeced a vuestros pastores, y sujetaos a ellos; porque ellos velan por vuestras almas, como quienes han de dar cuenta; para que lo hagan con alegría, y no quejándose, porque esto no os es provechoso». Debemos tomar en serio el don de gobierno, y este libro invaluable de Dag Heward-Mills ayudará al liderazgo de tu iglesia, a la administración de la iglesia y al gobierno de la iglesia de manera práctica todos los días.

This collection of essays derives from a conference on Violence, Culture and Identity held in St Andrews in June 2003. It is a contribution to the understanding of representations of violence in Latin American narrative. The collected essays are dedicated to the study of the problematic history of violence as a means of 'civilizing' the region: violence used by dictatorial regimes to eradicate the collective memory of their actions; violence as a result of the history of marginalizing segments of the population; sexual violence as an attempt at complete control of the victim. The essays establish a clear link between historical, political and literary constructs spanning the past five hundred years of Latin American history. Close readings of political texts, historical documents, prose, poetry and films employ identity theories, postcolonial discourse, and the principles of mimetic and sacrificial violence. The volume adds to the ongoing critical investigation of the relationship between Latin American history and narrative, and to the key role of representations of violence within that narrative tradition.

At the heart of crime fiction is an investigation into an act of violence. Studies of the genre have generally centered on the relationship between the criminal and the investigator. Focusing on contemporary crime fiction from the Spanish-speaking world, this collection of new essays explores the role of the victim. Contributors discuss how the definition of "victim," the nature of the crime, the identification of the body and its treatment by authorities reflect shifting social landscapes, changing demographics, economic crises and political corruption and instability.

Publicado por primera vez en 1957, Destino La Meca es tanto un ambicioso diario de viaje como también un trabajo de investigación etnográfica y cultural. Shah documenta un amplio rango de viajes fascinantes: su expedición tras las minas de oro del Rey Salomón en las costas del mar Rojo en Sudán, sus encuentros en caravanas del desierto y estadias con contrabandistas del Mediterráneo, y el tiempo que pasó como invitado personal del anciano rey Ibn Saud. Hoy, Destino La Meca es un libro tan entretenido como cuando fue publicado por primera vez; también es una guía para aventureros y para aquellos de una naturaleza más sosegada.

¿En qué se basan los estudiosos del tema del fin del mundo para advertirnos y apurarnos a que tomemos precauciones? Los creyentes reconocemos que es posible el fin del mundo como lo conocemos porque las señales que la Biblia y los Mensajes Marianos dicen que lo anunciarán... ya las estamos viviendo. Otras culturas antiguas y videntes de todas las épocas también predijeron lo mismo y, sorprendentemente, se han venido realizando sus predicciones. Pero si Ud. es de los que no creen en nada de lo anterior, permítame decirle que, en la realidad actual, con estudios científicos y pruebas de ellos, se ha señalado que existen varias amenazas potenciales para la humanidad y que, de concretarse, efectivamente ACABARÍAN CON EL MUNDO COMO LO CONOCEMOS.

Diseñando mi vida McFarland

The negro congos of Panama's Caribbean coast are a unique cultural manifestation of Afro-Hispanic contact. During Carnival season each year, this group reenacts dramatic events which affected black slaves in colonial Panama, performs dances and pantomimes, and enforces a set of ritual laws' and punishments'. A key component of congo games is a special dialect, the hablar en congos, which is employed by a subset of the congos in each settlement. The present study investigates the congo dialect from a linguistic point of view along two dimensions. The first involves deliberate phonetic, syntactic, and semantic distortion as part of the overall spirit of burlesque and ridicule that surrounds Panamanian Carnival. The second is the retention of earlier, partially creolized Afro-Hispanic language forms which may still be extracted from contemporary congo speech. These Afro-Hispanic vestiges are of key importance to monogenetic theories of Afro-Romance creolization as Panamanian congo speech provides examples of unique creolized Spanish.
