Seminar paper from the year 2018 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1,3, International School of Management, Campus Munich, language: English, abstract: As the number of publications referring to Tesla increased formidable during the last years, it is a highly discussed automotive brand, which is becoming more and more important. In August 2017, the Bernstein Research Institute published a study dealing with brand enjoyment and service experiences of 286 Tesla owners, which resulted in a fanatical brand loyalty autonomous of the region the participants lived in. This paper deals with aspects of Global Marketing Management and Customer Relationship Management, which on the one hand include growth drivers and complexities that underpin the strategy of Tesla in its quest to exercise market power in a very competitive automotive market place, and on the other hand examine how Tesla was able to connect its customers as prominent iconic luxury brand. In the end of this paper a "blue print" model on how Tesla might build and embrace a customer driven marketing strategy aimed at building tighter bonds with its loyal customers and delivering added value will be proposed.

This casebook provides students and academics in business management and marketing with a collection of case studies on services marketing and service operations in emerging economies. It explores current issues and practices in Asia, across different areas, countries, commercial and non-commercial sectors. This book is important and timely in providing a framework for instructors, researchers, and students to understand the service dynamics occurring in these countries. It serves as an invaluable resource for marketing and business management students requiring insights into the operationalization of services across different geographical areas in Asia. Students will find it interesting to compare and contrast different markets covering important aspects related to services.

Case Studies in Marketing Createspace Independent Publishing Platform

Despite the fact that experts acknowledge the importance of the emerging markets, there is a dearth of real case studies specially focussed on marketing issues. This case study book addresses that need. It is also important and timely in providing a framework for instructors and researchers (both academic and industry) to understand the dynamics occurring in emerging markets. This book is composed of long and short real cases with varying complexity in different sectors including airlines, hotel, fashion, etc. These will cover issues which are unique to the emerging markets (including the BRIC countries) to understand the dynamics occurring in these countries. With its case studies, collection of questions, and real-life marketing examples, this book offers unique benefits to marketing students and educators across the world. A must-have for every marketing course module.

Case Study in Marketing Van Haren

While most books on marketing and services are readable, very few take the student's viewpoint and set out to answer the question Is it understandable? in the affirmative. This book and its pedagogy has been designed precisely with this in mind. Design: The book has a consistency of design that is innovative, with aesthetic appeals. Opening and Closing Cases: Every chapter begins and ends with a case. The cases introduce the primary theme and issues discussed in the chapter and closes with analytical tasks for the students. The cases are original, pertaining to Indian situations, companies and protagonists, helping the Indian students to connect. Objectives: Every chapter has clear learning expectations, get a glimpse of the chapter context and their respective importance. End-of-chapter Questions: The questions are many and have been designed carefully to enhance learning for the students. There are elements of research, project work, and academic exercises in them. Illustrations: The book is generous with pleasing and informative charts, tables and diagrams. Glossary: The Appendix at the end of the book contains a glossary of services and marketing terminologies. Marketing models: In addition to the text, the appendix also contains major marketing models mentioned in the text, which are frequently used by the marketers. How to do cases: The Appendix also contains a useful section for all students a template for case discussion and analysis. There are four parts in the book. Part I takes an overview look at the major differences between services and goods and their characteristics, classifications and different models. It methodically analyses the section on the local, domestic and international conditions and environment factors that have affected services. It also examines the importance of Relationship Marketing in services. Part II examines in-depth the marketing of services. It looks sweepingly and with depth at marketing planning and strategy, service buying behaviour, knowledge management and marketing research in services, and the seven marketing mix variables for services. Part III is about the assessment of service delivery and customer relationship management. Part IV deals exclusively with comprehensive service cases. The cases are in addition to the opening and closing cases. The book lucidly explains the basic concepts of services and marketing and fills a long-standing need of the students for a book on both services and marketing.

Citizen-Centric Service Oriented Methodologies and Processes Pearson Education India Business to business markets are considerably more challenging than consumer markets and as such demand a more specific skillset from marketers. Buyers, with a responsibility to their company and specialist product knowledge, are more demanding than the average consumer. Given that the products themselves may be highly complex, this often requires a sophisticated buyer to understand them. Increasingly, B2B relationships are conducted within a global context. However all textbooks are region-specific despite this growing move towards global business relationships - except this one. This textbook takes a global viewpoint, with the help of an international author team and cases from across the globe. Other unique features of this insightful study include: placement of B2B in a strategic marketing setting; full discussion of strategy in a global setting including hypercompetition; full chapter on ethics and CSR early in the text; and detailed review of global B2B services marketing, trade shows, and market research. This new edition has been fully revised and updated with a full set of brand new case studies and features expanded sections on digital issues, CRM, and social media as well as personal selling. More selective, shorter, and easier to read than other B2B textbooks, this is ideal for introduction to B2B and shorter courses. Yet, it is comprehensive enough to cover all the aspects of B2B marketing any marketer needs, be they students or practitioners looking to improve their knowledge.

Marketing Planning 2007-2008 McGraw Hill

Service marketing is a strategy for promoting and showcasing a company's intangible benefits and offerings in order to increase end-customer value. This can be for stand-alone service offerings or for services that are offered in conjunction with tangible products. Service marketing is a term that refers to the sale of non-physical, intangible goods. It's done for company-provided benefits that can't be seen, touched, or felt, for example. These are benefits that are primarily driven by people, processes, and that a customer cannot keep. Service marketing is used to drive business in industries such as hospitality, tourism, financial services, and professional services. Importance of Service Marketing Marketers promote a variety of entities, including goods, services, events, and people. Service marketing refers to the marketing of services. Services are intangible in nature and do not imply ownership of anything. Its creation could be linked to a physical product or not. External, internal, and interactive marketing excellence are all required for service marketing excellence. Pricing, distribution, and promotion of services to consumers are all covered by external marketing. Internal marketing entails educating and motivating employees to provide excellent customer service. The ability of the employees to serve the client is described by interactive marketing. Factors in Service Marketing The key factors which define marketing for services are: 1. Intangible Unlike physical products, which can be touched, felt, and seen, services are not tangible. This distinguishes services from products, necessitating a different marketing strategy. 2. No ownership Services can't be bought or sold; they can only be experienced. This is a broad term that refers to the customer experience. You can own a service in the form of evidence such as plans, bills, and invoices, but you can't own it like a product. 3. Inseparability The concept of moment of truth guides service marketing, which means that services are created and used at the same time. They can't be stored like products in an inventory because they're made and consumed simultaneously. 4. Variability Unlike standardised products, services vary in nature despite the same people, process, type of work, and so on. For the same service, different customers may have different experiences. e.g. a telecom customer might get different experience for the same plan. 5. Perishability Services, unlike products, cannot be stored and must be consumed immediately. But there's another way of looking at it. Many services or plans these days have an expiration date. They are not the same as best before dates on products, but they are more in terms of service validity. e.g. free warranty service after 2 years of purchase. 6. People involvement People who provide benefits and solutions to the needs of customers drive service marketing. Although many automated service solutions are being developed these days, people still play the most important role in service marketing. Taking care of the 7Ps is part of service marketing planning. Price, location, promotion, product, people, process, and physical evidence are all factors to consider.
