Don S. Balkal already had plastic polyhedra dice, but there is the option of making your own from cardstock using the patterns in the front of the book. I printed out and laminated the game cards and organized the game pieces in file folders. Some games can be used in large class settings (30 students) while others work best with 2-8 players. Polyhedra Dice Games Grades K 6 - logisticsweek.com Polyhedra Dice Colorful dice perfect for any math activity you can think of! Both sets of ten dice come with two dice each in five bold colors (red, green, black, blue, and yellow), and the numbers are boldly printed on each side. Polyhedra Dice | Rainbow Resource Taking a cue from Steve Jackson Games, this one requires two d10's (percentile dice, actually) to play but they are not included. Bad form, but at least they packaged the card game in an appropriately-sized box and kept the MSRP somewhat reasonable ($20) unlike SJG's Munchkin (though I guess the big box comes in handy with all the expansions that came out for it).
