This is an update of the global seaweed market: production figures from culture and capture, the size of the international market for seaweed and its commercially important issues, the leading countries by region, developments in processing and utilization technology, and innovations in the industry, as well as the challenges and outlook for the industry. According to the report, the Asia and the Pacific region is the largest seaweed market, followed by Europe and the Americas. Moreover, in 2015, total global seaweed production was 30.4 million tonnes, 29.4 million of which originated from the aquaculture sector.

Does speculation with agricultural commodity futures cause price bubbles in the event of negative production shocks? Nova Publishers

The events leading up to the publication of this book started effectively in 1976 with the exchange of information between those modelling teams in Europe which were involved in the R&D-programme on Solar Energy of the Commission. When it became clear that the availability of experimental data for model validation was next to nothing, the Commission took the initiative to support in the frame of the Solar Energy R&D-programme the construction of Solar Pilot Test Facilities on eight sites in Europe. Each experimental facility consisted of two real solar heating systems with collectors, storage, controls, and associated piping, but with the dwelling thermal distribution system replaced by a physical load simulator. One of the two systems on each site was a reference system and was identical for the eight participating teams. The simulator was capable of producing a typical thermal load for a house, interactive with the actual weather, and took into account the effects of the occupants. With data from these facilities not only were national simulation programs validated, but also the meanwhile commonly accepted modular structured European program EMGPI was validated. EMGPI, which only could be run on a mainframe computer or under special conditions on a mini-computer, formed in turn the basis for the development of EURL and EMGP3. EMGP3 is an improved user-friendly program package for personal computers derived from EMGPI and includes a unique and user-friendly preprocessor.

EU enforcement authorities are on the rise, entrusted with investigating breaches of EU law by individuals and economic actors. What are the implications for legal practice of their increasing prominence? This book explores this pertinent question from a constitutional and comparative perspective. It sets out the parameters for composite enforcement and explores the relevant issues such as the interface between criminal and administrative law enforcement, the protection of fundamental rights and legal protection, as well as the admissibility of evidence, including unlawfully obtained evidence. Given the very real implications of the authorities' investigations, this book will appeal to practitioners and scholars, in fields from criminal law to competition and banking law.

This book presents articles, analyses and Congressional testimony which has been carefully edited, excerpted and indexed with regard to actual and potential terrorist attacks. Excerpts are also presented from reports issued well before 11 September 2001 which predicted the country's vulnerability and which were promptly buried in the graveyard of unread and unacted-upon reports. Questions are raised whether the dozens of federal agencies charged with aspects of homeland security can ever be co-ordinated by anyone without seriously reshuffling various government agencies which may turn out to be more difficult than eliminating terrorism.

LAW AND POLICY IN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS Sweet & Maxwell

Since the mid 2000s, an increasing financialization of commodity futures markets is taking place. This has fueled an ongoing discussion about the effect of financial investments on the development of commodity prices. Against this background, the trading activities of financial speculators also come to the fore. There is the concern that such speculators can cause irrational overshootings of agricultural commodity prices, e.g. in the event of global production shocks. In such an event the decrease of total supply induces a price surge menacing food security in developing countries. Yet, the question emerges whether speculation aggravates this price increase, eventually inducing a price bubble. The relevance of this concern is reinforced by the fact that due to climate change an increased frequency and severity of global agricultural production shortfalls is at stake. If speculation evokes an additional threat to food security in the event of a production shock, the political agenda should not be confined to focus solely on the adaptation to climate change. Instead, it is then also necessary to address speculative activities on agricultural commodity markets. This book scrutinises whether speculative bubbles can be identified in the event of severe global production shocks. For this, a framework for tracing the transmission of the futures price's development on the spot market is developed. Using annual data from 1979-2012 for maize it is analysed whether production shock related price bubbles occurred.
